BOOK DISPLAY FOR LIBRARIES 2017

Increasingly irresistible

Maintaining and increasing performance in the face of budget and staffing cuts gets harder every year, so there is a clear need for fast and effective ways to refresh and display books.

It has been proven that readers are more likely to choose from eye-catching displays so a key consideration in our design process is high-impact, face-out displays which tempt your readers with a range of books that are easy to see, touch and take.

Making books look irresistible and increasing issues is so much more effective with Opening the Book.

Children just want to have fun!

Creating children's libraries is our favourite thing to do - there is nothing better than encouraging children to enjoy books.

We love to hear how children make a beeline for one of our feature pieces such as the Reading Hideaway or that they have been tempted to try something new by one of our face-out displays.

The following pages give a taste of our inspirational furniture and there is lots more on our website. Go to openingthebook.com and grab some ideas and inspiration for your library!

Storage Seats

At Opening the Book we frequently get asked for units which integrate storage into seating to solve the problem of extra storage boxes making a space look cluttered and untidy.

Our team of designers were tasked with coming up with a child-friendly bench seat with built-in storage and here's the result... a flexible range of units that can be used in lots of different ways and can be configured to work in any size of space, against a wall or mid-floor. And of course, being Opening the Book, we couldn't resist adding to the mix a unit to display books.
